Did you know parents get grades too?
In the school of life
Because feedback helps us improve
Will YOU help your parent become better?!
Feedback can be fun & helpful... or painful & hurtful. HOW we give feedback matters.
Feedback that helps is about a BEHAVIOR...
Like you can take a picture of it
Feedback that helps focuses on YOUR FEELINGS about the behavior
Share one (1) parent GREATNESS
One (1) parent Change Request
So think about and write down your feedback beforehand...
Feedback from ___________ on ___________ 20_____

One (1) positive behavior of ___________ and that I hope will continue:

Think it through...
What about this behavior is great for you?

How does this behavior make you feel?

How will your life be good because ___________ continues acting this way?

One (1) behavior of ___________ that I want to talk about changing:

Think it through...
What about this behavior is bothersome to you?

How does this behavior make you feel?

What would you like to happen instead?

How would this change benefit you?

How will this change benefit the family?
Schedule a time together!
Conclude with an agreement
Follow up...and again follow up

How am I doing, boys?

The Dalton Brothers Review for Ma Dalton

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>To Continue</th>
<th>To Change</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Jack</td>
<td>You leave me autonomy in my work.</td>
<td>Accept criticism. “I heard you” is 1st step.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>William</td>
<td>You are welcoming when I invite friends.</td>
<td>Stop making unrelated links. Links should be obvious.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bob</td>
<td>You correct in private.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Averell</td>
<td>You cook well and you’re nice!</td>
<td>Do not correct in front of friend.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>